

I write in support of efforts to assure that meaningful internet service is readily available in all areas of Pennsylvania.

I live in St. Marys (Elk County) - which is 78 miles west of State College, PA.

St. Marys Area School District could always do more and offer more if ALL students had internet access. The district is well prepared with technology expertise and equipment. Not all of our students have access to quality internet and some have no residential access to internet. Academic support for students on home-bound instruction, the ability to share resources with other districts and possible innovations such as "virtual snow days" would be available and/or enhanced with dependable quality internet access for all geographic areas.

I would welcome the opportunity to further discuss this topic!
